

SAS Deployed Yet Again!

2016-03-17 21:55:12 by paul

The SASUK have yet again been deployed. A spokesman for the team said this would be the first time in the units history that a "large" number of the team would be deployed to a scrimmage. Although we can not comment of the full details of the deployment, what we can say for sure is that a number of the team (including females) have been told that they are expected to be deployed on Sunday the 20th March.

We will be in Shepton Mallet very early and we can see that the operation will be a success. We are very confident that the team selected to go are well trained and have excellent equipment. More details about the deployment will be posted very shortly.

<http://www.sasukclan.co.uk/html/modules.php?name=News&file=article&sid=18>